FROM WEST ONTARIO.

District Competition—Side Plugs at Other P.O's.

BY BRIGADIER MARGETTS.

Up and at it, every Officer, Soldier, and Recruit, of Senior and Junior War, and floor at a stroke the Harvest Festival Goliath (Target), $1,700 is our mark.

Yes, you have done well in the past. The spirit of victory is in your blood. I have no fear. Bless you! You are going to win and surprise quite a few people, I know. I have been playing and hallooing, we shall see!

How shall we do it this year? Well, though I am no prophet, nor the son of a prophet, yet when figures are counted up, I am of the opinion they will come out something as follows:

London District, they say, will come out at the front with $400. Turner means business. They raised $223.50 last year. London Corps is down for $200. Here is your chance, Ensign Savage, but mind, there are a good many wistful eyes looking London way. Surprise them the right way, Ensign.

The Brantford District, under Adjutant Dowell, will come out second, I am informed, if not first. $315 is their figure. Now, which of these Districts will be at the front in the query. Both Commanders have gone up a peg, and it will largely depend upon the strength with which Harper, Fox, Wheelan and Paris holds up the District Officer's hands. Comrades, you have a Winchester, a Fisher, Crawford and Howcroft to combat. Take pains and push ahead.

Petrolia and Windsor will wage war. The former is down for $250, the latter for $150, but that David MacAmmond is a dabbler, so look to the weak places, Adjutant Myles. Both Districts have five Corps and a generous population, and it will be well for Myles and his crew of Ebbury, Hoddinott, King and Findlay to remember that there is Brannigan, Long, Raynor and at Essex in David's army, and they are all great folks when Goliath is around. Fight it out!

But neither of these heroes must be too sure, for Adjutant Taylor is at Palmerston, whence I have just returned. They are in for Harvest Festival that way, and the District Officer has Dean, Andrews, Collier and Stephens at his back. I tell you they stand for something. Their figure is $150, but some of them are noted for doubling their targets, so beware!

Now, here's a trio. Casa and Chatham District, Andrews and Simcoe, and Hunter and Stratford are each down for $160. These Districts did $118.12, $115.19, and $120.00 respectively last year. Everybody knows, or should know, what the four letters—C-A-S-A—stand for in Harvest Festival. Hunter, too is a racer, doing a double pace last year at Petrolia. Andrews is an Easterner, and they are generally good goers. Which is to get ahead? I'll back them all.

They each have some good backers. Casa, for instance, has Wakefield, Payton and Barber; Hunter, has two Clarks, Sloke and Orchard, and Andrews is strengthened with Frink, Will and— at Norwich, every one of whom will stand firm to their man and go for their target. 'Twill be a tussle, cheer, comrades!

But dear little Dresden. Shall yours be a case of "the last shall be first"? I know some good things are in store, and you are full of great hopes. $115 is not a great figure when Creighton, Scott, Hiley and Rock are about. You are good for that, anyhow. I should say more, but space fails.

We must, however, have that $1,700, and say, my dear Brigadier Scott, and Major Sharpe, Friedrich, Howell and McMillan, you may see a few surprises by the time you all get through—that is, if you don't keep on in till Christmas. Give us your hand. We are ready for the fray and shall look around by-and-by to see where you are, but should rejoice if you would save us the trouble of looking back to see you. Come on!

Yes, a plough will do for the X. F.

THE WAR CRY.

The - Commissioner

NANAIMO AND VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Down 800 Feet in a Coal Mine—A Ride Under the Sea—Nineteen Souls at the Cross—A Total of Sixty-Five Souls for the Province.

Reported by MAJOR FRIEDRICH.

Travelling.

A large portion of the time spent by the Commissioner in the Pacific Province was spent travelling by rail and boat. We left Spokane Tuesday afternoon, and arrived at Seattle on Wednesday morning, where Ensign MacBurn and Cadets met us and took kindly charge of our baggage, as well as ourselves, conducting us to a place where we received a good breakfast. The boat was a little late in starting, as it "sometimes usually" is. The Commissioner at once started to manipulate the typewriter, which by accident had been kept from her during her wait in Seattle. A thick smoke hung over the sea, and the boat went rather cautiously at times, so that we were late in reaching Victoria.

Reporters.

My thoughts went back to a reporter who interviewed the Commissioner in some American city, on this tour. After giving him all the desired information, the Commissioner would talk to him about his soul. "What about your soul?" she asked. "You are doing a lot of writing about other people; what sort of writing are they doing about you in Heaven?" The answer was as and as it was true: "Nobody cares for a reporter's soul; but, I suppose, you Salvationists hold yourselves responsible, if no one else does?"

Nanaimo.

The train leaves Victoria at eight o'clock. Good and early the Commissioner was ready; first to inspect a piece of ground; then to go through the Shelter and then off to the train; shading of hands; a waving of handkerchiefs until the train turns the corner, and we are speeding along at safe speed. Mr. Robins, the Superintendent of the coal mines, who so kindly entertained the Commissioner, Staff-Captain Minnie and your humble servant went down 800 feet into a coal-mine. At the bottom an electric trolley-car was ready to take us forth.

A Ride Underneath the Sea

to the workings. We had comfortable seats on some bags of feed, and held our heads low, while the Commissioner played on a bag of concertina. We are marching to Zion. Of course, we all had very special costumes, and carried a lantern. The ride in the bowels of the earth was really delightful, but there is an end to all things, and we had to get out and walk. Frequently we had to stoop considerably, the roof of the shaft being only a little over four feet from the floor. We saw the mud and slush, which from time to time we met, and she had a "God bless you!" and a few kind words for all the men we met. We kept on walking under the sea until we came to a shaft, which brought us to a land, and here we were elevated, not like Jeremiah, with old rags under our arms, but in a proper stage, to the surface of Protection Island. The Robins' steamer launch took us from back to the city. The "handy man" of the Commissioner in her skin cloth. Captain Sheard had his Barnicks very lately decorated with flags and mottoes. A banquet, preceding the meeting, was well patronized, and after the meal, the building was filled with a mingled audience, and among them many of the rising generation, of whom a great number could not even rise, but had to be carried. The song, "My soul is now united to Christ the Living Vine," went with swiftness. The audience was truly mixed. Some of them had not been inside an Army building before. After a stiff fight, four souls found Salvation at the feet of Jesus. The boat left at seven next morning, so that we were kept well on the go.

The Fog and Smoke

made travelling slow. The fog-horn was employed freely as we neared the shores of Vancouver. The Commissioner, in spite of entreaties to take a little much-needed rest, would do business.

Vancouver.

Sunday commenced well with a lively knee-drill. Staff-Captain Minnie gave us some sound talk and taught us the latest chorus, "Thy dying love has drawn us near to Thee." The following three meetings were held in the spacious Market Hall, which was nicely decorated for the occasion. A very good congregation was present in the morning. Hearts were touched, fears moved, and several sought the blessing of a clean heart. The Hall was again well-filled for the afternoon, and the crowd listened very attentively to the fire-clothed words of the Commissioner. From the faces of many strong men tears were seen flowing, and there is no doubt but what many a refugee from his own conscience was past sin, and possibly from the law of the East, was compelled, by sheer force of the mind, to look at his sins and seek knowledge of them. But

The Climax Came at Night.

The Hall was crowded from the beginning, and many were turned away. The congregation sang splendidly, especially when the grand old hymn was given out, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." The music was most touching and noble, there was a great deal of feeling in that song. The Commissioner and Staff-Captain Minnie sang "The Dream of the Judgment," accompanied by the band; and the impressive, earnest way of carrying away the burning same into many a dark conscience and guilty life. The Commissioner was carried away with the theme of her exhortation, and for more than an hour she held fast the audience and carried them where she pleased by the force of her holy enthusiasm, which captivated the people. The prayer-meeting was well-led by Staff-Captain Minnie. It commenced with rather a still night, but we finished with

Fifteen Souls in the Fountain

and topped it off with a march round the hall. Hallelujah! Too soon the meeting was closed, and the lights turned out, but the light had fallen upon many souls that was shining on, and shining on to perfect day. The Commissioner had a little Office Meeting with the Officers of the Staff-Captain Minnie and her round the four British Columbia Corps. We all enjoyed her talk and the testimonies of each other. At two o'clock she had to leave on the train for a three days' journey to Brantford again, Commissioner, and stay longer the next time. Come again, and come soon.

It has been a wonder to us all how the Commissioner kept up her strength after all the anxiety, worry and travelling across the hot dusty plains of Dakota and Montana before she reached her first appointment in the Pacific Province, after leaving her Father's rests were very much broken into by late meetings and early trainings. We had half-a-dozen testimonies, climates and atmospheres to go through in a few days from the thin, dry, hot air of Montana, to the heavy, damp, chilly weather of the Coast, but her visit has done an incalculable amount of good; sinners have been blessed and not saved, church members have been inspired, soldiers have been encouraged, and Officers and the busy business men have been blessed. In seven places visited, 55 souls came to the penitent form.

Kind Words.

This induces me to record another instance of a reporter who interviewed the Commissioner. He had left his wife across the ocean, and after getting through his business, was led out by a few kind words of the Commissioner to tell her his story. He felt alone in this world, so he had become reckless and bad; he thought nobody wanted or cared for him, but he told the Commissioner that to his dying day he should not forget her "God bless you!" because it came from the heart of a pure woman, and it lived with him and drew him upward in time of temptation, as he expressed it himself. Do not forget, comrades, "Kind words can never die!"

Power of Song.

It is also well to consider the great power we have in our songs, especially when they are well chosen and well sung. A gentleman stopped me on the streets of Vancouver who was at the Commissioner's meetings at Vancouver for several days; he was singing it over to himself, and seeing our uniform, at once ordered our music book, and have it sent to Chicago—his home.

POINTS FOR PROFESSORS

EIGHT KNOCK-DOWN BLOWS FROM ADJUTANT GIBBS' SLEDGE-HAMMER.

In the eyes of the world the crucifixion is a story of a man who died for sin, but that your sin is found out. But God makes no distinction; sin is sin before "His eyes that are purer than to behold iniquity."

The world says, "How dreadful!" and holds up a sinner as a man who is at the sight of a drunken man falling down the street, but it winks at the sinner who is a man who is drunk in his home and is carried to his drunken stupor. But the Book declares that the drunkard shall labour the Kingdom of Heaven."

The strong arm of Justice seizes the man who steals a loaf of bread to keep wife and little ones from starvation, and sends him to jail; but a man who steals by the whole sale and the widow and orphan till their cry reaches up to Heaven is admitted to the best society, and still God declares "Thou shalt not steal," and unless the man who steals and is found out repents and likewise the man who steals and is not found out repents, they shall both "likewise perish."

Again, there are people who would shrink back in horror, if you suggested that they take a knife and plunge it in some one's heart. "Why?" I hear them say, "That would be murder," yet they hate their brother or sister. God has said, "He that hateth his brother is a murderer."

Others will repeat cruel whips of stung that they have heard and use their tongues in as murderous fashion as ever knife was used, until mountains are made of mole hills, some one's character is blasted, and those at the bottom of it all go on in severe indifference. The electric trolley-car has said "Thou shalt not kill," also said, "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor."

Then how easy it is to condemn some one who sins because they have been tempted. Only God knows how stark, and some one else feels very good and virtuous because they have never sinned in that particular way; perhaps because that sin has no power over them or the same force of temptation has never been brought to bear on them. And yet some other sin may be feeding upon the vitals of their soul all the time.

Ladies draw their skirts around them when they pass some unfortunate on the street, whose brazen brow proclaims he is an outcast, and looking at them, one wonders if they are "pure in heart," for only "the pure in heart" shall see God.

Oh, how easy it is to excuse our own pet sins and failings and to find fault with other men's, but if sin is in our hearts, whether it be open, or secret, remember, "Except ye repent, ye shall likewise perish." There's none but the pure and the holy can ever enter in; you have the hope of Heaven, glory if still you're the servant of sin."

was the next place that the Commissioner honored with a visit. We arrived there early in the morning from Brandon, and found the Officers and Soldiers at the Station. The drum could be heard as the train rushed into the depot, and after a lot of volley firing and greeting, we were able to get the Commissioner into a carriage kindly loaned by Ex-Mayor Garland, and she was then driven off to the Officers' Quarters, where she stayed during her visit to Portage.

MAJOR BENNETT, Winnipeg, Provincial Officer for the North-West Province.

Our Leader did a very heavy day's business with Ensign Berry, her private Secretary, but just before the meeting the Commissioner was able to steal a few minutes to look over the new Barracks, with which she was delighted.

At the night meeting drew near, the Comrades from the country began to arrive, some coming fifty miles from their farms to be present, and travelling the whole distance in rags. The band and Soldiers turned out well for the open-air. The Juniors, too, were for about ten minutes, doing some very heavy hitting.

On arriving at the Barracks, our troops gave the Commissioner a grand welcome volley, and made her feel at home right away. Captain Habdrik was called upon to sing a solo, while the Commissioner accompanied him on the banjo. Staff-Captain Minnie took an important part in the beginning of the meeting.

When the Commissioner rose to address the meeting, with Bible in hand, she was heartily greeted, and talked for over an hour. Everybody seemed to be spellbound, and sat as still as mice listening to the grand flow of inspired language that came from our Leader's lips. In the prayer-meeting, several came forward.

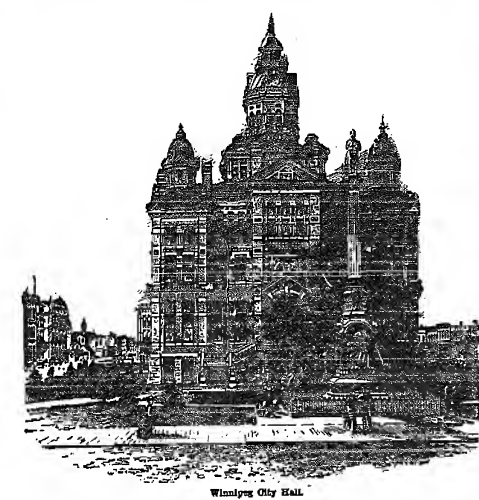

On Saturday morning, the Salvationists were early astir, and as busy as bees. The Commissioner and Staff of Officers left for Winnipeg at 9.30 a.m. During the two hours and a-half that we were travelling to Winnipeg, the Commissioner and her Secretary were very busy with the correspondence, and the typewriter was running nearly all the way.

AT WINNIPEG

we were met by a crowd of Soldiers and friends, who were most anxious to get a glimpse of the Commissioner, who was most heartily received, and taken over to the Provincial Headquarters. She was soon at home, and hard at work again at 3 p.m., when she went to the Orange Hall to conduct an Officers' Council, where once more she was received with great joy by some thirty Officers. one hundred and nine dollars of which was given by the Officers and Corps, and the remainder by the Provincial Headquarters. I might say that the Shelter contributed five dollars of the amount given by the Corps. The Commissioner was very much surprised, and made a suitable reply. At the close of the Officers' meeting a Staff supper was arranged.

Staff-Captain Minnie led a united Soldiers' and Officers' meeting on Saturday night, and a good time was experienced. Every one present went home believing for a good time on the coming Sabbath. A great knee-drill, led by Major Collier, was the commencement of the day's battle; sixty-six were present, and we had a most blessed time. Major Collier took charge of all the open-air, which were most enthusiastic. For the day we had

270 SOLDIERS ON THE MARCH.

There was an immense crowd at the Holiness Meeting. In fact, there was twice as many as I have ever seen at any Holiness Meeting in Winnipeg. The Commissioner was in grand condition, although the weather was very hot. She had not been talking many minutes before tears could be seen in many eyes. At the close of the meeting several came out for Paul's Salvation. At the afternoon meeting, the large hall was packed to its uttermost capacity; in fact, many had to stand in the gallery. The atmosphere was terrible, and the Commissioner struggled against the oppressive and excessive heat with the determination of an heroine, and so well did she succeed, that she was able to continue her most heart was again most oppressive, but the Commissioner battled with the difficulty in a warrior-like manner, and gave one of the most masterly addresses I ever heard.

The prayer-meeting was a most desperate battle, and at the close of the day's fight, we united seventeen as the slain of the Lord.

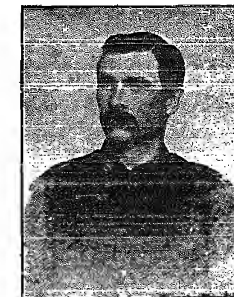

The finances were very good, as we took in and thus closed one of the best, if not the very best Sunday's meetings that had ever been held in Winnipeg. This is the testimony of all.

On Monday morning, the Commissioner was up and at business very early, interviewing Officers and settling some very important business. She then rushed off to the N. F. R. Depot, where the Band and a very large crowd of Soldiers and citizens gave her a glorious send-off. Amongst the crowd were several ministers, who gave the Commissioner their blessing; several of them had been to the meetings on Sunday.

The Commissioner addressed the crowd from the car, and they, in return sang "Shall We Meet." The Band played, and amid great waving of hats and handkerchiefs, the train pulled out. This ended a most triumphant visit to the great North-West, and everybody says, come again Commissioner. H. B.

The boys of Headquarters who went out camping at Greenhurst are back again, brown, almost, as herries.

The Temple Corps sold 600 War Cry during Boom Week—all they could get.

Adjutant McLean and Captain Lewis have faredwell from the Temple. 220 souls knelt at the Cross during their eight months' stay.

Major and Mrs. Read are spending a week's furlough at Oakville.

Adjutant and Mrs. Burdette succeed Adjutant and Mrs. McLean in charge of the Temple Corps.

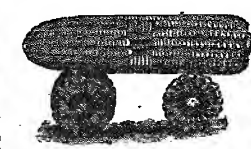

Adjutant Manboon specialised at Riverside on Sunday and had a high day.

Ensign Stanton, from England, has taken charge of Kingston. Mrs. Major Read has issued a Song-Service pamphlet entitled, "Deeds of Deliverance," for use in special Rescue meetings.

All the City Corps celebrated Civic Holiday by a united "go" at the Temple. Major Gaslin led a hot and fiery meeting, and told us about a dozen anecdotes, all of which had a moral that hit with a bang.

Staff-Captain and Mrs. Hargrave faredwell to Toronto at this meeting and are off to Kingston to assume the Chancellorship of East Ontario.

Staff-Captain Rawling spent two or three days visiting his home, Peterboro, last week.

ting through his business, was led out by a few kind words of the Commissioner to tell her his story. He felt alone in this world, so he had become reckless and had; he thought nobody wanted or cared for him, but he told the Commissioner that to him, she was the only one who should not forget her "God bless you" because it came from the heart of a pure woman, and it lived in him and drew him upward in time of temptation, as he expressed it himself. Do not forget, Comrades, "Kind words can never die!"

Power of Song.

It is also well to consider the great power we have in our songs, especially when they are well chosen and well sung. A gentleman stopped me on the streets of Vancouver who was at the Commissioner's meetings at Vancouver and heard her sing the chorus, "Grace there is my every debt to pay." It had been ringing through his ears for several days; he was singing it over to himself, and seeing our uniform, at once ordered our music book, as he wanted the tune of that song, and have it sent to Chicago—his home.

POINTS FOR PROFESSORS

NOTE

EIGHT KNOCK-DOWN BLOWS FROM ADJUTANT GIBBS' SLIDING-HAMMER.

In the eyes of the world the crime hard to be forgiven, is not that you sin, but that your sin is found out. But God makes no distinction; sin is sin before "His eyes that are purer than to behold iniquity."

The world says, "How dreadful!" and holds up its hands in holy horror at the sight of a drunken man reeling down the street, but it winks at the "weakness" of a man who gets drunk in his home and is carried to bed in a drunken stupor. But the Book declares that "No drunkard shall inherit the Kingdom of Heaven."

The strong arm of justice seizes the man who steals a loaf of bread to keep wife and little ones from starvation, and sends him to jail; but a man who steals by the wholesale and robs the widow and orphan till their cry reaches up to Heaven is declared to be the best society, and still God declares "Thou shalt not steal," and unless the man who steals and is found out repents and likewise the man who steals and is not found out repents, they shall both "likewise perish."

Again, there are people who would shrink back in horror, if you suggested that they take a knife and plunge it in some one's heart. "Why?" I think I hear them say, "there's no murder," yet they hate their brother or sister and God has said, "He that hateth his brother is a murderer."

Others will repeat cruel whispers of slander that they have "heard," and use their tongues in as murderous fashion as ever knife was used, until mountains are made of mole hills, some one's character is blasted, and there at the bottom of it all go on in never-ending indifference to the fact that the name God who said "Thou shalt not kill," also said, "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor."

Then how easy it is to condemn some one who sins because they have been tempted. Only God knows how surely, and some one else feels very good and virtuous because they have never sinned in that particular way; perhaps because that sin has no power over them or the same force of temptation has never been brought to bear on them. And yet some other sin may be feeding upon the vitals of their soul all the time.

Ladies draw their skirts around them when they pass some unfortunate on the street, whose brazen brow proclaims for an outcast, and looking at them, one wonders if they are "pure in heart," for only "the pure in heart" shall see God.

Oh, how easy it is to excuse our own past sins and failings and to think God we are not as other men are. If sin is in our hearts, whether it be open, or secret, remember, "except ye repent, ye shall likewise perish." There's none but the pure and the holy can ever enter in; you have no hope of Heaven's glory if still you're the servant of sin.

THE HARVEST FESTIVAL.

A tremendous amount of work over a very wide area will have to be undertaken on the lines laid down in the Hand-Book, to make this the success we desire. Nevertheless, the Commissioner is full of confidence that friends and Comrades everywhere will rally round her Officers, and that once again the Territory will acquit itself in a way worthy of its great reputation for zeal and devotion. Perhaps the spirit of the Officers may be gauged somewhat from the following typically Army-like despatch just received at the War Cry Office from Captain Josh Jones, of St. Catharines: "No fear of reaching Harvest Festival Target; it will be smashed all to pieces. Full of faith for mighty things."

THE LATEST CAMPAIGN.

The Field Commissioner's latest Campaign has been a mighty triumph for the cause of Christ. In spite of a temperature which was enough to prohibit any great success, the tour is a record of unsurpassed victories. The centres of population, where the great battles were fought, have been tremendously stirred. The crowds were often greater than our meeting places would accommodate. Our glorious Lord, to whom is every echo of praise, was present in power, graciously sustaining, both physically and spiritually, our most estimable leader, whose life of fighting saintliness endears her to us more and more, and the following influence at work were such that in many places whole congregations wept and numbers went publicly forward to the Mercy-Seat. With so much to rejoice over, it is difficult to adequately convey an impression in words strong enough to mirror the abundant victories of the tour, we can only ask our Comrades and friends everywhere to dot their hats and join with us in a doxology of loudest thanksgiving to Jesus, who is so slightly pouring His favors upon us. Hallelujah!

AN IMPERIAL EVENT.

THE BRITISH WAR CRY declares the beginning of the Field Commissioner's command here to be an event of "not merely Canadian, but Imperial importance." And that is just what we meant it to be. This action of the universal Army intended the world to see that it was on the Rock both feet, and that it could and would receive the young heroine the General had sent as leader, with an order of enthusiastic record to nothing of the sort on earth, and we did it.

Along the march for the Harvest Festival.

THE WORLD—THE WHOLE WORLD—FOR GOD.

THE same paper says, in its concluding remarks on Canada, "Canada is ours as well as Canada's." Hear, hear! say we in return. We appreciate the comradeship of this Army, and scorn the Jewish idea of a religion confined within the bounds of any one locality or nation. "Wide as the world is God's command," and equally wide are our sympathies for the race. Not until the blood of Christ loses its efficacy will we cease to grasp the whole wide world in the arms of our faith and love, that by prayer and endeavor we may help "in it back to God."

THERE AND HERE—VICTORY!

WE also congratulate our British comrades on the Pentecostal victories which have signalled the advent of the warrior-saint who has just taken charge of the United Kingdom. You Britons have the people, while we have too often the space where the people ought to be; nevertheless, your victories mightily inspire us, and while you elude the thousands for God, we, with his less vehemence, will lay siege to the hindmost, and if we do this, at the throne we shall both hear Christ's "Well done."

and because they did not know the value of time. The officer who has learned to set a value on punctuality in beginning his meetings has discovered one of the keystones of success.

Commissioner Booth, Leader of the British Forces.

"The silver is Mine, and the gold is Mine, saith the Lord of Hosts." (Haggai, II, 8). Remember this whenever you think you own something.

TO THE OFFICERS.

A WORD

FOR THE H. F. BATTLE.

LET my whole heart rely upon you to put forth every effort to make this Festival surpass all previous years. Witherto you have not failed. In many instances you have surpassed the hopes of those whose expectations were the highest. The self-sacrifice practised and the devotion manifested has been more than appreciated by your leaders and acknowledged by God—it will be so again.

Yours, with you in determination to conquer,

EVANGELINE BOOTH,

Field Commissioner.

BE ON TIME.

That promptitude is the soul of business is a maxim applying to all mundane affairs, is a truth which none would care to deny. It would not, however, be correct to say that it applied with equal force to the Army's business of saving souls. Nevertheless, it plays an important part in all our services, and its absence is a factor which has to be reckoned with as militating against the success of people in every avenue of life. We have known many a congregation to grow restless and impatient, and consequently much harder to deal with, because the meeting has not commenced at the appointed hour. If a gathering has been announced for eight o'clock, at that moment the commanding officer should be in his place, ready to give out the opening song. A late start frequently is otherwise. It has been well said that an unpunctual man is a disturber of other people's peace, and we fully believe it. In this regard we should take pattern from our General's example, who insists upon commencing his meetings at the advertised time, whatever sacrifice of personal comfort it may cost him.

There is more accomplished by promptness than most people imagine. England's greatest naval hero, Nelson, said he owed his success to always being a quarter of an hour too soon, and Napoleon said he beat the Austrians

PRACTICAL CLEANLINESS.

At a recent meeting at San Francisco IX., a man in the audience gave an example of practical cleanliness and politeness which is worthy of the emulation of many others who attend Army meetings. The Captain had just asked for the collection, when he was seen to leave his place in the front row of seats and make a break for the door. The Captain told him not to leave the meeting on account of the collection, whereupon he said, "I'm not going away; I'm just going out to spit."

With hearts stirred, and brimming over with reverence and affection, we salute our invincible General. We hail our fellow-Salvationists in faith and prayer. We delight to know that we are sharing with you in the joy of the battle, the thrill of the strife. From the Commissioner, holding her crowded meetings, or sweeping over rolling seas of prairie green, to the latest soldier in his solitary shanty, our spirits are united with yours. From our woods and lakes there arises a shout of sympathy and triumph. From the orchards of the East, and the forests of the West, from the ice-bound North, from mountain rock and lonely plain, from fountaining torrent and chasm and cliff, from heated city or quiet homestead, we hail the power of Jesus' name. We are going straight for the lowest and the lost, to win them for the Kingdom and the light.

We are stretching forth our hands fearlessly, definitely and desperately to snatch poor souls from hell.

We pray for you, and press on with you, wakeful and watchful against the powers of darkness. We are at our post, determined we will never rest until the whole earth shall be full of the knowledge of God's Salvation.

THE Commissioner has returned to territorial Headquarters. Such a time he has had! The tour has been noted for several things:

FIRST, heat: 104 to 108 degrees in the shade may be very nice to some people, but it is just a little too warm for meetings. Second, big crowds, — could hardly believe it. Every place seemed to try to outdo the other. Third, souls. Yes, souls at the point-form.
They must have been anxious to get saved to come out in such heat. Souls at a reception meeting, souls at the line of the seat, when it is fashionable to drop soul-saving work.

WITHOUT a doubt even more can be accomplished by preparation. East Ontario Comrades should be praying and believing for results. What is the use of it all without souls, or something done towards getting them saved?

MORE changes on the go. This time of the greater lights, no less a person than Brigadier Scott, of the Eastern Province. After eighteen months' faithful service, his dear wife and himself will be saying farewell to the Eastern Comrades.

OF course, they won't be farewelling until after the Harvest Festival, and it could not be expected that they would desire to go without hitting their target.

ADJUTANT McLEAN, of the Temple, is broken down in health and is compelled to have a rest. We are sorry to have to arrange this. What a nuisance it is that people's throats give out, etc!

QUITE a change on out West, during the Commissioner's visit. (See Gar-ette). One very important move is that of Adjutant and Mrs. Phillips, of the Pacific Province, who take charge of a soul-saving Brigade. This is a step in the right direction.

ADJUTANT CLARKE, who, it will be noted, has had charge of the Winnipeg Shelter, for about eighteen months, takes charge of the British Columbia District. Captain A ward takes his place in charge of the Sher-ker. We understand that one of the lights of the Winnipeg Shelter is the force and cow.

REGULATIONS for the Band of Love are being prepared. Every Corps of any size should observe it at once what it all means. Don't allow your Corps to get behind the times. This being satisfied with the past is too ancient an affair.

HARVEST FESTIVAL. The success of it depends upon what is done this week. No use to wake up at the last day and say, "I hope I'll have a good time," because I am quite sure that the Officers at Calgary—Captains Dwyer
and Mackay—will hit their targets,
so will Captain Mitchell and Lieutenant Medrid strike the Edmonton target; they are not at all prepared to
hard work, and so victory is sure.

IF the Field Officers are not all alive,
then the Local Officers ought to rise up and must upon a move being made;
and if the Field Officers and Local Officers so beautifully and nicely fall asleep singing "What Must it be to be There," then the Soldiers should cause
a stir, and put to shame their elder brethren; and if the whole Corps is gone to sleep,—which, alas, sad to say,
often times the case when the Officers are,—then the sinners ought to rise up in a body, and say that if the sinners
are not going to praise God for a good harvest, they are.

WE fervently hope that not one Corps in the Territory will get into that state which makes it necessary for the sinners to put them to shame.
The Commissioner relies entirely upon every Corps, not only doing their best,
but lifting their target.

JUST in time. The very latest Adjutant Watson, well-known throughout the Territory, farewells, and is appointed as Chancellor to the Century Ontario Province. May he and his dear wife be the means of helping to stir up the Central.

THE GREAT NORTH-WEST Speaks on Harvest Festival Prospects for 1896.

MAJOR BENNETT'S PROGNOSTICATIONS.

Yes, it is a fact that the Harvest Festival is going to be a glorious success. The Officers are all in line and have got things well in hand.
At Winnipeg Councils amongst both
Staff and Field Officers, the Harvest Festival was thoroughly gone into,
and every Officer is determined to get their target.

Every District Officer will get his District Target—that goes without say-

of many battles, and she will prove

RAT PORTAGE DISTRICT.
The target is fixed at $245.00. Last year they did well, as they raised some $255.30, so a little extra effort will easily make the increase. This District is also run from the Provincial Headquarters, and all the Officers and Corps may be relied upon to get their targets.

Now, Port Arthur, you have never come in behind, and you never will.
Captain Isaacson has been at the front
for years, and will be well in the front at the Harvest Festival. Then there is Captain Gunle, of Rat Portage; she will not be left behind, I can speak for that. There is also Captain Davidson, at Port William, that great C. P.
centre, they will not get left, but will do valiantly; so will also Keewatin.

From the Commandant's
New Country.

HOW THEY WILL RECEIVE HIM.

COLONEL KILBY, Acting Commissioner in Australia, in a letter just to hand to the editor, makes the following reference to the approaching advent of the Commandant and Mrs.
Booth:

"We are getting on splendidly in Australia. As you can pretty well imagine, my hands are fairly full just now,
between the Commissioner's going out and the Commandant's coming in. We are putting on all steam at the present moment preparatory to the coming of the Commandant and Mrs. Booth, and you may reckon on hearing of something worth talking about in the days
to come."

We are going in to give them a real blood and fire welcome, you may reekon, such as they have not had for many a day.

MAJOR GRAHAM, our special correspondent in Queensland, says, in a communication just to hand:

"Australia has opened its arms to Commandant and Mrs. Booth. I honestly believe its heart, too. We are in for good times. Meanwhile we are going ahead with our three months'
winter campaign, which ought to put us in good trim and receptive mood for our new leaders, inspirations and suggestions. His advent, as you will see,
will, therefore, be at a very opportune
time, and thoroughly favorable to himself and Mrs. Booth. Hallelujah! May the Holy Ghost abundantly fall upon them both."

"God is very good to us all, is He not, in giving us the General so long?
He grows mightier. His late Australian visit was a marvel of energy, soul and dash. Hurrah for the General!"

Montreal I.

Must try and cheer the Editor's heart
with a word or two regarding the War Cry. We have determined to do our utmost to tell out all round the district. Have increased the sales at No.
1, about 150 a week, and expect soon to raise our orders. Cadet McColl and Sergeant-Major Symington, who have charge of them, are most enthusiastic, and of course, so am I. Lieutenant Williams takes the responsibility of the Point St. Charles sales. Now, Lieutenant, show us what you can do! Enroll all the Bonners you can, and be amongst the champions yourself. Cadet Hodge likewise takes the responsibility from the Captain's shoulders, and a little work will do wonders. Last week's Cry was the best we've had for months, (at least I thought so), and the new tune to "There is a better world, they say," is worth the price of the whole paper half a dozen times over. Yours living for Jesus, E. Galt, Adjutant.

"I would like to go to the Harvest Festival."

The HARVEST FESTIVAL, 1896.

HERE are two, who are precious to us
all, who will watch with affectionate eagerness the result of this and our coming Self-Denial effort—the Commandant and his dear wife. You must not give me the pain of sending, or permit him the disappointment of receiving, any figures but what will be far ahead of last year.

Yours, with you in determination to conquer,

EVANGELINE BOOTH,
Field Commissioner.

Calgary District.
which is run from Winnipeg, raised last year $22.40. The target this year is $23.00, and I am quite sure that the Officers at Calgary—Captains Dwyer
and Mackay—will hit their targets,
so will Captain Mitchell and Lieutenant Medrid strike the Edmonton tar-
get; they are not at all prepared to
hard work, and so victory is sure.

FARGO DISTRICT.
Their target is fixed at $230, but I have no hesitation in saying that the new District Officer, Adjutant Gole, with his Officers and troops, will get the bull's-eye. Faith and works will strike
the right spot.

GRAND FORKS DISTRICT TARGET,
$270.00.
This is distributed among five Corps,
and the newly appointed and long experienced District Officer, Adjutant Macdonald, will get ahead of this amount without doubt; then there are the Officers and Soldiers of Mandan and Elmore, who will not come behind in doing their share to-
